

Pool Cleaner for the Lido

Whilst we now have the clearest water we have ever had, there is a need for us to buy a pool cleaner. The filtration does not remove larger debris such as leaves or plasters. We usually get the leaves out with a net, although it is reasonably hard to get the ones right in the middle

There is on most pools a 'scum line' which is where the fat/skincells that sit on the surface of the water stick to the tiles on the waterline. This can be removed manually, which involves staff getting into the water out of hours to do so a couple of times per week and manually scrubbing with a sponge.

As a result of the labour requirement of the above, most pools supplement their cleaning routine by using an electric cleaner. For a pool of our size there aren't many options for variety in choice. Following advice from both Certikin and Hydrospec I have sought comparison on a 'Dolphin 2x2 Gyro' Cleaner.

Supplier A	£7595.00 + VAT	Includes installation
Supplier B	£5416.00 + VAT	Registered repair hub for this make
Supplier C	£6579.17 + VAT
Supplier D	£5332.50 + VAT

My recommendation is that we proceed with Supplier B as they can facilitate repairs if needed later down the line.
